THIS THING OF PEACE.

The Houston Post evidently goes on the theory that the best way to secure peace is to knock the other fellow in the slats, shove in his face, crack him over the head, walk upon his vest, and then tell him to be peaceable. The Post says the following, and is apparently trying to be serious:

"The work of the Galveston convention was done well, in strict accordance with the will of the people, and the results will go far toward restoring harmony in the democratic party and peace among the people. The people have become weary of personal politics; they have become weary of bitter agitation and they have wearied of legislative experimentation. They have declared for a rest and the convention has prepared the way to obtain it."

If the Galveston convention had studied for months on a program that would have precluded the possibility of political peace in Texas for the next two years no improvement could have been made on the stunt that was pulled off. It was a challenge to every democrat in Texas who is not willing to worship at the shrine of Senator Bailey that he was to be outlawed in all of the party's councils, and if the Post thinks that is the way to get political peace it had better urge the early completion of the contemplated enlargement of the asylum for the weak-minded. The Post had as well understand right now that something has been started in this good old state, and it is going to witness a fight in the sweet bye-and-bye that will be a fight. The anti-Bailey people expect no quarter and will give none.

THE TEXAS STATE FAIR.

One of the greatest advertisements for the state is the Texas State Fair, held at Dallas every fall, and no county should fail to have an exhibit of its products there, with a good man, or set of men, on hand ready to explain the exhibit, to extol the advantages of the county, and to distribute suitable descriptive literature.

The next fair will open October 15, and will continue for sixteen days, and it is announced many new features will be added, and many wonderful improvements made.

Let Anderson county show itself among the list of progressives, and have on hand a suitable exhibit.

WEAKEST OF LOGIC.

The Denison Herald perpetrates the following:

"A rabid prohibition exchange gleefully calls attention to the closing of the Palestine saloons on the occasion of the recent rioting in Anderson county, thereby proving what everybody knows, that the saloon is an evil. No sensible man has ever contended otherwise—the saloon is an unmitigated evil. But the licensed saloon is not half as bad as the unlicensed blind tiger or the festive bootlegger. Had Palestine been a 'dry' town, does any one imagine that the tigers and the bootleggers would have closed business during those perilous days of rioting? Speaking of evils, the rattlesnake is an evil, likewise the mosquito and a thousand of other things placed here by an All Seeing power. And the votes of men have not yet been able to rid the world of these evils. It may be that after the flight of years, old Vox Populi can do away with these curses via the ballot box route, but not yet, Mary Ann. On to the Rio Grande!"

After admitting that the saloon men promptly obeyed the order to close in this city and stayed closed until such time as they were permitted to open, thus contributing to keeping the peace, the Herald considers the Denison paper's argument as the cheapest of subterfuge. It admits that the saloon is an unmitigated evil, but contends that the only way to handle this evil is by regulation and license control. Strange that of all the unmitigated evils the saloon is the only one that demands control by license—demands that it be tolerated if it is willing to pay the cost. All other evils have been exterminated by prohibitive laws. Why make the difference? If a man steals a horse he is to be punished and prohibited from future thefts by confinement in prison, but if the saloon costs the career and usefulness of a boy it is to be taxed for the privilege. As to rattlesnakes and mosquitoes, the law of science and civilization has been exercised against them for all time; they have never been licensed and controlled. It has always been a work of extermination. And who can say that great progress has not been made? Cities have been built where the rattler used to crawl, and he is gone from his old place. Cities have all but driven the mosquito from his place. There has been no compromise with any of these things; no effort at regulation or control, but it has been a war of extermination all the way.

Vote in the primary today. Last call.

Keep boosting for your town. A loyal man can always find something good in his home and is by nature a booster.

The state senate by a majority of one is very promptly putting to sleep all liquor bills offered. The house by a very liberal majority is passing the bills, and they stop there. In the meantime the people are keeping the record.

Palestine business people should be right out after trade now. This fall promises to be a good business season, and the town that hustles will get the trade. Palestine merchants have the stocks and there is no reason why we should not get trade from a large section of this country.

The Marshall Messenger is contending that all electric wires go underground. And that is really where they belong. It would be expensive to put them there, but would lend beauty to the streets and safety to the citizen, as well as preserve the beautiful shade trees that telephone and electric wire stretchers so ruthlessly destroy. Every growing town should strive to have all wires placed underground.

There are two live propositions up to the progressive citizen to be taken care of. The first is the purchase of two pretty parks for the city, places where the people may spend their idle hours in recreation. The second is a public road measure, calling for an additional tax of fifteen cents with which to construct permanent roads. Let's adopt both of them, and make Palestine and Anderson county keep growing and prospering.

The Herald is going to keep insisting that Anderson county have a big exhibit at the coming state fairs. The Dallas fair will be coming along pretty soon now, and from advance indications the fair is going to be bigger and better than ever, and thousands of people will be flocking there to see the greatness of Texas. It is really important, brethren, that we have a part in that show. The Board of Trade could undertake no more important work at this time. If nothing more is done we should send the exhibit of our Boys' Corn Club. Let's get busy.

Senator Bailey can make mistakes, as was evidenced when he credited to Admiral Evans the famous saying of Commander Phillips of the battleship Texas. The Herald had occasion to refer to this expression some few days before the state convention, and being slightly at doubt as to the origin of the "don't cheer, boys," declaration undertook to get some reliable information. Of the several people asked about it quite a number credited the remark to Evans, some to Schley, others to Dewey, and so on. Finally a good lady teacher gave us the correct information. Fame is a fickle god, after all.

The people of this section heard with profound regret of the death of Carl Stokes. As a man, as a law-maker, as a lawyer in the practice of his profession, as a friend and neighbor, Carl Stokes had established the reputation of being true and clean and above reproach. As state senator from this district his official conduct had been characterized by honorable and able service, and there will be none to say evil of his political life. He had in him the elements of true manhood, and the state and country needed his services and his life. Let us drop a tear and remember that we have lost a good friend and an able counselor. Peace to his memory.

It is usually the small tax-payers, or those who pay no taxes at all, who set up the biggest howl about increasing the taxes. Tax money is absolutely necessary to the conduct of any sort of government, and from the beginning of history all organized communities, all states, all nations, have had to collect tax money from the people. And as a rule a higher tax rate means a better governed people; a greater amount of benefit; a more enjoyable life. Take the matter of roads for instance: You cannot have good roads without money to build them, and you cannot get the money without extra taxation. Good roads benefit all people. They increase land values, make travel comparatively easy, save in time and money, make for prosperous communities, good churches and schools; improve the social conditions, and in a hundred ways pay for themselves. The day will come when good roads will be the rule rather than the exception. In some sections of the country this is already the case. It should be the case in this section, for there is no other one thing that is holding this section back as the effect of poor roadways.

MEMORY OF MR. STOKES

Legislature Holds Memorial Services at Austin, and Large Committees Accompany Remains.

The remains of Senator C. C. Stokes passed through the city this morning, and were met here by a large number of Palestine admirers and friends. Accompanying the body were the widow, her mother, Mrs. Hilyer, of Austin; Mrs. Cunyus, a sister, and Dr. Edgar Stokes, a brother. The funeral takes place at Crockett this afternoon at 5.

Last evening in the senate chamber memorial services were held as a testimonial to the memory of Mr. Stokes, and a large number, members of the legislature, Austin citizens and state officials, attended. Governor Campbell and members of the legislature made talks, and the floral offerings were magnificent. The following members of the legislature were appointed and accompanied the remains to Crockett: Senators Adams, Kellie, Ratcliff and Perkins; Representatives Luce, Fuller, Terrell of Cherokee, Terrell of Bexar, Porter and Strickland.

The following Palestine Knights Templar joined the funeral party here, and accompanied the remains to Crockett: Messrs. Con Devers, A. H. Russell, J. W. Vossler, A. F. Hewitt, G. W. Pierce, W. H. Nance, John L. Smith.

The following Crockett people came up last evening to meet the remains here: Messrs. Joe Adams, Earle Adams, A. H. Wooters, Harry Painter, Arch Baker, Henry Beasley, John LeGory and J. B. Valentine.

Amended Charter Knocks Out the Suburban Saloon

The amendment to Palestine's charter, offered by Representative J. J. Strickland, and designed to put out of business the suburban saloon and beer joint, has received favorable action in the house of the Texas legislature, and will be passed by the senate Monday. Then in ninety days it will become effective. It makes it unlawful to conduct a saloon in the city, outside the business district.

Representative Strickland has been active in bringing about this change, and when the amended charter becomes effective, whether the commissioners will it or not, the suburban joint must quit.

It is a good law, as some of these places are hard to control, and all of them are objectionable to the neighborhoods in which they are located.

Voluntary Bankruptcy Is Taken By C. E. Dobbs

C. E. Dobbs, doing a furniture business on Main street, made a voluntary assignment today in favor of his creditors, and Receiver Thomas H. Bonner, representing the referee in bankruptcy, took charge of the stock and business this morning. Mr. Dobbs is represented by the firm of Campbell, Sewell & Strickland. The attorneys give Mr. Dobbs' liabilities at $17,000 and his assets at $20,000, represented by a stock of furniture, accounts, mortgages and notes. The indebtedness is divided, two-fifths of it being to home creditors and three-fifths to outside creditors. Mr. Dobbs' financial troubles are due to his inability to realize promptly on his outstanding accounts and notes. The assets, if available at this time, exceed the indebtedness by several thousand dollars.

The assignment came as quite a surprise in business circles, as the Dobbs house has been prosperous for a number of years. The people of the city generally sympathize with the young proprietor in his temporary embarrassment, and all hope that he will be able to adjust his affairs and get back in the business circle.

LABOR IS SYMPATHETIC SECOND BALE IS SOLD

Local Trades and Labor Council Passed Resolutions Over the Death of C. C. Stokes.

At a regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night, the regular order of business was suspended while a resolution was drawn and adopted expressing regret at the death of Senator C. C. Stokes. Senator Stokes was recognized as a strong friend to organized labor, and had been frequently commended by the union men. A committee was also appointed to wire a message of sympathy to Mrs. Stokes at Crockett.

The council discussed the Labor Day celebration as long length, and plans are making to make the event one of general interest. Everything was reported coming along in good order to this end.

AT THE AIRDOME.

"The Little Doctor of the Foothills" the Feature Film Tonight.

The management says: The Lazwells, singers and dancers, are now filling an engagement at the Airdome Theatre. They do some lively dance stepping and their work seems to be highly appreciated by the audience. They will change their act tonight, using new songs, and will introduce some new steps in dancing.

The feature film on tonight's program is an Essanay subject, "The Little Doctor of the Foothills." The baby show continues to attract much attention and promises to be a most interesting contest. The standing of the various little babies is shown on the screen at each performance.

On Monday night the Airdome will open with Norine Holmes and Company in a comedy sketch, entitled, "A Disappointed Father."

CONSIDERABLE INTEREST

Is Being Manifested in the Second Primary Today.

Quite a bit of interest is being manifested here today in the second democratic primary. A number of the races are being warmly contested, and the friends of the candidates are working hard. The greatest interest possibly centers in the race for sheriff.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Published By Authority of the Secretary of Agriculture.

For Palestine and vicinity until 7 p. m. Sunday: Tonight and Sunday partly cloudy weather; cooler Sunday. Minimum temperature, 78. Maximum temperature, 92.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was over the New England states has passed out to sea beyond the range of reports and the area of high pressure that was in the rear of this storm has moved eastward to the Atlantic coast. Slight depressions are over Arizona and Northern Texas. Rain has fallen in the South Atlantic states, the east gulf states, the upper Mississippi valley and the Plains states. Temperature changes have been slight except in Nevada, where there has been a change to much cooler weather. The following heavy precipitation (in inches) has been reported during the past twenty-four hours: Jacksonville, Fla. 1.42; Duluth, 1.70. Partly cloudy weather is indicated for this vicinity tonight and Sunday, with cooler weather Sunday.

Palestine Gets Her Second Bale of the 1910 Crop—Auctioned Off By Board of Trade.

The second bale of cotton to be brought to Palestine this season was auctioned off at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The bale was raised by E. D. Moore, on the McInnis farm, and was bid in by Leo Davidson at 16 cents. Pretty soon now the crop will be moving right along.

Picking is progressing in many parts of the county, and despite the continued dry weather, many farmers are optimistic over the outlook.
